Dear Dr Wakeham

I visited the United States in May to gather material for a book I'm writing on the politics of the smoking-health controversy. You may recall I telephoned you from New York after having had a long discussion with James Bowling.

Time did not permit me to visit the PM research centre, but I'd be grateful if you could send me a description of the work conducted there, in the greatest detail possible. I remember glancing at a glossy pamphlet on the research center during my American visit, but this did not as I recall describe the operation in any detail.

Yours sincerely

William Norman

(PS I am also seeking illustrative material. Could you ask your public relations people to include one or two black and white photographs of work at the Center?)
